

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A motorcycle having a radiator positioned between an engine and a rear wheel and including an air management system for guiding cooling air to the radiator. The air management system includes a pair of top ducts, a middle duct, a bottom duct and a pair of rear ducts. The top and middle ducts extend over the engine, while the bottom duct extends below the engine. The rear ducts are disposed rearward of the engine.